Introduction.

THE KANSAS KIKKABE is but another reminder to the friends and students of the University of Kansas that the institution is no longer in its infancy. As we have increased in educational facilities, and in point of numbers, gradually has the interest of the students been attracted more and more toward society affairs, athletics, and those other pursuits that form no portion of our regular college work. Some organ has long been needed by the students, besides the regular catalogue of the institution, by which University life, from the student's point of view, may be properly recorded and laid open to the public.

Our University, while sadly lacking all the elements that go to make up the frolicsome barbarities of some of the Eastern institutions, will always furnish topics which will be worthy of record and interesting to all friends of the College. While hazing, shower baths, cane fights and other pernicious pleasantries are to us unknown, the enthusiasm of our students is turned in other directions that will, perhaps, be just as entertaining when properly described.

With the desire of publishing to the world the daily life of the Kansas student, as it is, the students themselves have brought the KIKKABE into existence, and the students themselves will continue its publication so long as there remains a particle of enthusiasm, life or wickedness in the institution.

While making no apology, we admit that the KIKKABE is not this year what it ought to be—what it will be in the future. The very short time allotted for its publication, the confusion and local contention that always attend the opening of any college enterprise, must necessarily impede its first progress. In the future we may look for better work, and there is no doubt but that the student's magazine will keep pace with the progress of the University.

The full page photograph of our Faculty will be gladly received by all students, both old and new. We regret very much the fact that this does not contain a full list of all the members of the Faculty; but out of respect to the wishes of those interested, we have only published the professors who have willingly given their consent.

SENIOR CLASS.

The present Senior class was organized in the Junior preparatory year—seven long years ago. It is physically a very large class, having twice come off victorious in rope pulls, but it has never yet distinguished itself mentally, except in the number and variety of petitions it has sent to the faculty.

When we were yet children in our "prep" days, we commenced the siege of petitions, and have kept it up ever since. We petitioned for an Arbor Day, for two week's vacation instead of one at Christmas, for a vacation on the day after Washington's birthday, for excuse from chapel rhetorical, and now, as we are about to go out, we will petition the faculty to reduce the price of diplomas from five dollars to four dollars and seventy-five cents, as most of ours will be second grade, any way.

In the accompanying cut our artist represents Y—g presenting our last petition.

We have tried to keep the school awake for the past few years, for when the excitement over our dear, departed Regent had died down, we stole dogs, persecuted the poor whisky men, kicked up a Kikkabe row, and made ourselves felt generally. We pride ourselves on coming in between the pet and baby class of last year, and the big, awkward, overgrown, gawky Juniors. We glow like a beacon light in the dense fog of ignorance which surrounds us.

JUNIOR CLASS.

ΜΟΤΤΟ—Στεργε τὰ παράδοξά ζήτε το βέλτεον. COLOR—Navy Blue.

Father Time has laid to rest three of his most promising offspring, children dear of his latter days, since we, a youthful band, each bestride his or her pet Pegasus, first appeared at the U. of K. Everything was new from the etched windows of the chapel, and the tricky stairways, to the pretty but even more dangerous upper-class maiden, who, fitting through the halls, seemed to the untutored minds of some of us, the very incarnation of loveliness and learning. But now we are Juniors, and most favorably situated; before us a Senior class which has assumed the proportions of a point, an excrescence on a vacuum. They obstruct neither our view nor the gaze of those whose eyes are fixed on us. Behind us the Sophomores, many in number, and verdant as possible, form a quite pleasing background for the brilliant displays of their upper classmen. We, who have but five out of the seven acting officers of the "Review Company," and were defeated last fall on the base ball field, when the other classes combined to humble our honest pride, are not downcast, and when the owl screams again we hope to appear much better, being the better represented.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

MOTTO—τὸ τέλος τὸ ἔργον σφραγισσάτω. COLOR—Old Gold.

"A spirit yet unquell'd and high,
That claims and seeks ascendancy."

'Eighty four has found the proverbially dismal days of Sophdom anything but dismal; doubtless because the marvellous brilliancy of the present Sophomores has enabled them to freely indulge in social delights and yet retain their high standing as students. We are proud to say that originality is the characteristic of '84. Naught but true genius could have induced the members of this class to write chapel orations a year before they were required to do so—a thing unprecedented in the annals of the U. of K.

The above cut is an apt illustration of the advantages of co-education. But neither our scholastic nor social qualities have won for us so much renown as our dauntless courage has done. An unselfish desire to place our Alma Mater on an equality with Eastern colleges gave us strength to overcome all opposition, and to introduce the beautiful mortar-board cap. Where'er we went we were the "observed of all observers;" even the newsboys stopped and gazed at us in awe and admiration, crying, "Evening Tribu—Le'me take a ride on your hat!" Seeing that a mortar board was a short road to fame, the noble seniors soon followed our example. Then was our happiness complete! But "base envy withers at another's joys, and hates the excellence it cannot reach," and soon intimations that we had escaped from the Old University (Idiot Asylum) appeared in the city papers.

Envious of our overshadowing superiority the amiable Juniors endeavored by means of an atrocious compound of sawdust, cayenne pepper, sulphydric acid and plaster paris, to "send us to our account with all our imperfections on our heads." But their wicked plan failed, and we still stand foremost of all in U. of K.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

MOTTO—Vita sine literis mors est. COLOR—Blue.

It is with many misgivings for our safety that we will attempt to present to our readers a short sketch of the class of '85 as Freshmen. When it is known that the class of '85 has carried off every trophy in all contests where physical strength was required, no one will be at loss for an explanation. Time after time has the editor been warned of the dire consequences should he insult the "dignity" of this class, therefore, kind readers, be indulgent and consider the many difficulties under which we are laboring. The year opened auspiciously for the Freshmen. For a time it seemed that they were born the noble sons of fortune, and honors without number were lavishly showered upon them. Alas! A costly lesson was to be learned, which, it may be safely said, will prove an invaluable warning to their posterity. As the paternal strings had just been loosened to permit them to attend college, and they were exulting in their supposed escape from tyranny and oppression, preparations were made to storm the lofty fortress situated on Faculty Hill, and occupied by a number far inferior to their own. "Soft" ammunition was placed at a convenient distance for use. A night was selected when the enemy was engaged in revelling. But false reports sent out by the enemy produced such consternation in their ranks that a retreat was made in sorry plight. So ended the famous Freshmen reception.

In a few more weeks the class of '85 will no longer be entitled to the honorable name of Freshmen. Their path has not been strewn with roses, neither has victory always perched upon their banners. Physically they are Apollos—mentally they are what Darwin would delight to call—but we refrain; for being yet in their teens, they are naturally very sensitive. In base ball they have been victorious under the most discouraging circumstances, and well merit the title of "champions of the University." Throughout the year they have sedulously avoided all petty quarrels that have so characterized their elder brethren. If the past forms a criterion—but we do not wish to prophesy great achievements for this class, as flattery is not our aim. But in justice we say, taking a retrospect of their labors for the year, "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

"Weighed in the balance—weighed and found"—not wanting. Would that it were so! But, although fewer in number than last year, the "Preps.," as we fondly term them, are a mighty host and a great power. It is to the Preps. that the collegiates owe many of their tribulations. They stroll in the halls and corridors, and we are subjected to scathing sarcasms as to our knowledge of the first of the "three R's," with a reference to the posters in the halls. They turn out the gas on lecture nights, break windows in the gymnasium, and organize rushes when the large and appreciative audience, which is always drawn by any purely college entertainment, is pacing down the hill with thoughtful step and slow. They leave the gates open, and, seated on the leeward of the building in attitudes suggestive of Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's "Twenty Lovesick Maidens," smoke Vanity Fair cigarettes, and survey with calmness the herds of cattle rushing to feast upon the luxuriant blue-grass of the campus. Yet, we can forgive them. They are young—so young and so innocent—in appearance; and with the far-seeing wisdom of the proverbial Kikkabe, we discern in them the germs of Sophomores, who will carry the banner of the University of Kansas fairly abreast of gay and ultra-legal Princeton. Let us watch them with indulgence for their youthful indiscretions, even though these be as many as

"Autumnal leaves
That strew the brooks in Vallambrosa."

One cannot turn without seeing half-a-dozen of these festive beings, and to such an extensive subject no pen can do justice. Therefore, they are figured for your benefit. The faculty are realizing, though somewhat slowly, that the day is not far distant when

"The little Prep, so full of sport,
Will have to keep away."

A HISTORY

THE SECRET SOCIETIES

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS.

IN the fall of 1872 Major Wyllis C. Ransom, then a resident of Lawrence, and General Manager of the L. L. & G. R. R., interested himself in the establishment of a Chapter of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity at the University. He was a graduate of Michigan University and an enthusiastic fraternity man. His efforts met with marked success, and he soon had some of the best students in college pledged to join. The petition for a charter being granted, on the 9th of January, 1873, at the home of Major Ransom, the Alpha Nu Chapter of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity was founded. The charter members were: F. C. Bassett, Jas. A. Wickersham, L. D. L. Tosh, E. B. Noyes, E. H. Bancroft, Ralph Collins, Frank McClellan and J. D. Lambert.

At the time of the establishment of the B. Θ. Π. Chapter there existed in the Oread Literary Society a semi-secret organization known as a "Higher Degree." The members of this "Degree" were intimate friends. So when it was rumored that some of its most prominent gentlemen members were interested in the foundation of a secret society, the lady members at once determined not to be outdone. Communication was immediately held with Miss Sarah Richardson, a member of the I. C. Sorosis, at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., by her sister, Miss Flora Richardson, in respect to the establishment of an I. C. Chapter, at the University. The necessary arrangements were soon made, and very soon after the B. Θ. Π. Chapter was founded, the I. C.'s appeared with their badges. The charter members were: Misses Hannah Oliver, May Richardson, Lizzie Yeagley, Flora Richardson, A. Gertrude Boughton, Alma Richardson and Vina Lambert.

As our University grew larger, good material for a new Chapter increased. Accordingly a petition which led to the founding of a Chapter of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity in the University of Kansas, was sent to the Grand Chapter, in January, 1876, and it was due chiefly to the energy of Prof. F. O. Marvin, a graduate of Allegheny College, 1871, and Mr. George W. Haggood from the same institution, both being members of the Pennsylvania Beta Chapter of Φ. Κ. Ψ. A charter was granted and on the night of February 19th, 1876, the Kansas Alpha Chapter of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity was established in the University. The charter members were: F. O. Marvin, Professor in the University; Chas. S. Glead, Chief Clerk of Law Department, Santa Fe Railroad Company; G. W. Haggood, Merchant in Hiawatha, Kansas; H. H. Jenkins, Civil Engineer, Texas; Valorous F. Brown, Pastor, Methodist Church, Loveland, Ohio; Harry W. Berks, Real Estate and Loan Agent, Salina, Kansas; J. W. Glead, Assistant Professor of Latin in the University of Kansas; H. D. Crandall; G. T. Nicholson, Clerk in the Santa Fe offices at Topeka, Kansas. F. O. Marvin was then a Professor in the University, the rest being students.

During the six years of its existence, it has initiated fifty-two members, a yearly average of a little more than eight. As soon as the Phi Psi's "swung out" intense rivalry arose between the two fraternities. Each has fought the other ever since in an honest, upright manner, and at the present time the two societies are nearly of equal strength.

On the 17th of March, 1881, the Kappa Chapter of the K. Α. Θ. Fraternity was established in the University. This result was effected mainly through the efforts of Miss M. Lizzie Wilder, then a member of the Junior Class. The charter members were: Julia M. Watson, '81; Maggie R. Eidemiller, '81; M. Lizzie Wilder, '82; Alice E. Bartell, '83; Grace Hough-telin, '83; Cora E. Pierson, '84; Kate L. Ridenour, '84; Lizzie V. Caldwell, '84; Carrie E. Heyward, '84; Jo. Brown, '84; Roberta Neisley, '84; Clara Gillham, '84, and Ida E. Bay, '85. The initiation of these members took place at the home of Miss Pierson, and was superintended by Miss Hannah Lee Bird, of Michigan University.

During the hot days of last summer a young man might have been seen on the streets of Lawrence wearing a handsome Phi Gamma Delta pin. It was not long before he met Mr. Harry E. Riggs, of Lawrence, and Mr. Glen L. Miller, then in the employ of the University. Through the instrumentality of these three a charter was obtained, and on the 17th of September, 1881, Pi Deuteron Chapter of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity was established at the University of Kansas. The names of the charter members are as follows: Mr. Glen L. Miller, Troy, Kansas; W. Y. Morgan, Cottonwood Falls, Kansas; J. T. Harlow, Lenexa, Kansas; Samuel Seaton, Olathe, Kansas; Victor Linley, Atchison, Kansas; J. T. Stevens, Lawrence, Kansas; J. D. McLaren, Minneapolis, Kansas. This fraternity ran sub rosa until last March, when all of its members appeared with ϕ. Γ. Δ. pins, creating quite a sensation. This is the youngest secret society in the University although it is rumored that the Kappa Kappa Gamma's are running sub rosa.

—OF—

The Literary Societies

—OF THE—

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS.

OROPHILIAN LITERARY SOCIETY.

SHORTLY after the opening of the University in 1866, the students began to feel the want of a literary society. This led to the organization of the “Acropolis Society” in the following year. The object of the organization was mutual improvement in debate, declamation, and extempore speaking.

Among its first members, and those who took a leading part, were :

Miss Clara M. Archibald.	Mr. Robert Burgess.
“ Kate Bullene.	“ John P. Cone.
“ Mattie Cone.	“ R. P. Evans,
“ Lucy Gleason.	“ G. Morgan,
“ Emma Hadley.	“ B. N. Rooks,
“ Alice Osborn.	“ A. E. Thrasher,
“ Fannie Ross.	“ J. T. Barker,
“ Mary Sutherland.	“ — — — — —
“ — Whitcomb.	“ — — — — —

In the year 1870 the name was changed to the Orophilian Literary Society. Soon after this, the number of students became quite large, and a portion of the members left the Orophilians and organized a new society called the Oread. In 1872 a charter was granted to the Orophilians, it being the only chartered literary society in the State.

The meetings of the society were formerly held in Orophilian Hall in the old University building. In 1880 a room was set apart in the new building for the exclusive use of the society, which has been elegantly furnished by the members.

The membership at present numbers eighty, of whom the greater part belong to the college department. During the present year the society was successful in the annual contest with its sister society—the Oread.

OREAD LITERARY SOCIETY.

In 1870 a number of the Orophilians withdrew, and organized the Oread Society. The first meeting was held on the evening of December 9th, with the following persons present: J. C. Donaldson, Hannah Oliver, Lizzie Williams, Alice Smith, V. R. Elliott, H. E. Lewis, Maggie Herrington, O. J. Kennedy, L. L. Kirk, C. F. Bassett, and Jennie Herron. To these persons belongs the honor of organizing a society that now holds such a prominent and honorable position in the University. The first officers were: C. F. Bassett, President; J. C. Donaldson, Vice-President; Jennie Herron, Sec'y; Hannah Oliver, Critic.

The members were earnest and enthusiastic, and the society prospered, many names being added to the list of members. The meetings were well attended, and there were but few failures. The society first met in the old University building, and afterward in the Universalist Church, until in 1880, when the Regents furnished each of the societies a room in the new University.

The Oread Society has kept pace with the rapid growth of the University, and has always been an honor to the institution. The object for which it was organized has been steadily kept in view, and to-day, as in the past, earnest, careful work is expected of each member.

Forty of the seventy-eight graduates of the University were Oreads, and hundreds who remained but a year or two in the University have enjoyed the advantages of the society and contributed to its success. The first annual exhibition was given during commencement week of 1872, and one has been held each year since that time. The first annual contest in December, 1880, between the two societies, resulted in a victory for the Oreads, but in the second they were not so fortunate.

The society has been more prosperous during the last two years than ever before. The Hall is adorned with busts and pictures, and presents an attractive appearance. The membership has been greatly increased, and careful preparation has characterized the work.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

The Natural History Society was organized in the year 1873 by George F. Gaumer, Andrew Atchison, John Long, William Osborne, B. W. Barnett, A. C. Scott, and a few other leading students. The object of the society was to study natural history, and to compare notes on the observation and study of nature. The exercises consisted of a paper on different topics directly or indirectly connected with natural history. A free open discussion followed the reading of each article on its subject. The work was all original, and deserves a place in the scientific history of our State. The society published a paper called the Observer of Nature, which contained many valuable and interesting articles on the animal and vegetable life of Kansas. This was the first paper published in the University, and it was a most decided success. It merged itself into the Collegiate, and that into the Review, which is now published by the students.

Prof. Snow took a lively interest in the society, and it owes much of its success, in the amount of good original work done in natural history, to his energy and tact in setting amateurs at work. It had an average membership of over twenty-five, and met every two weeks in the rooms of the Natural History Department. The meetings were discontinued in the year 1877.

NORMAL LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Normal Society is the "baby organization" of the University. It was organized November 16th, 1881. The two societies previously mentioned did not satisfy the requirements of the members of the normal department, and some movement seemed to be necessary that would give opportunity for work in the particular direction which teachers need. Twenty-five names were enrolled at the first meeting, and the membership now numbers thirty-five of the most progressive students of the normal department.

Class drill, papers, addresses, free discussion and comparison of methods by the students, with a lecture by some member of the Faculty added now and then, comprises the character of the work done. Great interest is taken in the work by the students, and the society is rapidly growing in strength and favor with the Faculty and students. The success of the organization is due in a great measure to the excellent spirit inspired in the normal students by the present Dean of the department. A bright prospect lies before the society, and the present members are determined to see it verified. They have already secured the privilege of a June representation which will occur on the evening of June 3rd.

Dancing Clubs.

"On with the dance; let joy be unconfined!"

OH, TERPSICHORE! Breathe upon us thy divine spirit, that in words fitly chosen we may celebrate this most important feature of our University life.

Let not anyone imagine that we estimate this rather unprecedented feature too highly, or that the progressiveness of the West, joined to the advantages of co-education, has in this instance led us into slightly devious paths. The benefit derived from our dancing clubs is inestimable. Under their fostering care, the "wall flowers" have left their barren soil, and, in the heat and light of the ball room, blossom in all freshness and beauty. The carriage of the once awkward girl, a goddess now might envy; and the bashful, blushing youth has become as "cheeky" as the rest of his sex. Every attitude and gesture is aesthetic, and Banthornes grace every assembly.

The members of the three flourishing clubs are all extremely interested in their work. Many of them are Sophs, and hard students of "Analyt," as is seen by the geometrical figures they execute. Among them, also, rank many sons of

D. D's, whose only pangs of conscience come with the trouble their "Methodist feet" sometimes occasion them.

A dancing lesson is a striking and, to the spectator, an amusing scene. As the strains from the orchestra quicken, the smart youth who has the step and can "get around," clasps closer his fair partner, and inclining his head with a satisfied smile, gracefully—treads on her toes. Various groups stand around viewing them with envious emulation. A few couples who are gyrating about with a look of fixed determination on their heated countenances, and a most decided "one, two, three," issuing from their lips, will undoubtedly soon be their rivals. Others show by their open-mouthed admiration, their languid attitudes, and their despairing expressions that they have no expectations of such a happy fate, while the bent head and clasped hands of that individual in the corner, who is striking out alone, exactly in the pathetic manner of one learning to skate, tells us that he has been brought up to believe in the efficacy of prayer.

However, their motto is a certain indication of the success of all. They seize every occasion for practice, and sometimes in a certain class the rhythmic sound of hurrying feet in the music room below, has necessitated the speedy exit of the Prof. But as yet the offenders remain unknown.

In short the dancers are all thoroughly imbued with the spirit of their work, and they show it in everything they are called to do. They glide slowly and sedately into chapel; they gallop quickly through their easy lessons, and waltz gracefully around their hard ones; they escape the Prof's anger with the same agility with which they racquet; they slip through examinations as smoothly as they Newport, and finally when the inspiring music of the dinner gong sounds upon their expectant ears, they set of in a tumultuous "heel and toe." Long life to the organizations, and all honor to their founders.

University Gymnasium Association.

In January, 1882, by order of the Board of Regents, a room in the basement of the University building was set apart and fitted up to be used by the students as a Gymnasium. An association was speedily formed, composed of a large number of students, who have taken charge of the room and will control it in the future, subject to the supervision of the Faculty. Each student is his own monitor, and is responsible for any damages to the apparatus while he is using it. About nine-tenths of the gentlemen in the University avail themselves of the opportunity for drill in athletic exercise.

THE SPIRIT'S WOE.

Come hither, lad! and bring with thee
A quart of whisky best;
Nay; do not tremble for thy fee—
I'll give it to thee first
Yes, friend, this is a temp'rance State,
And this a temp'rance town;
And yet I bought this whisky "straight,"
And paid for it "cash down!"
I'll tell you why, (you'd never guess),
We are a band of students gay;
In age, not one of us is less
Than twenty-one; and t'other day
We planned a mighty scheme,
To lay the liquor-seller low,
And wake him from his dream
Of cash receipts, by no means slow;
And this the best did seem.
Full fifteen gallant youths in all,
With two from Beta Pi.
At what they chose to think their fall,
The other Betas sigh.
He only heard his country's call
To help her laws, or die.
So off to every shop we went,
Where samples could be found;
For "whisky straight" most oft we sent,
And stirred it round and round;
And drank, or carried it away,
Until we thought at last
We had enough; and so one day,
The time of plotting past,
We made our plea in legal terms.

'T was twenty-seven fold,
 And, Cadmus-like, we sowed the germs
 Of an hundred conflicts bold.
 They took us on the witness stand,
 And awful questions framed ;
 For one of them, with manner bland,
 Asked one (whom I've not named,
 Slim, and the youngest of our band),
 Asked him to tell his age !
 Did'st ever hear of deed more fell ?
 The palid youth so shook with rage,
 His tongue refused to tell.
 They sought by flight escape to find ;
 To Baldwin next they passed ;
 But Prof's and students of one mind,
 To catch, and hold them fast,
 Pursued them even to that town,
 And won the case at last.
 Ah, me ! The worst I have not told.
 Forgive my heart-wrung tears,
 When I mind me of my ally bold,
 Whom they could not shake with fears.
 With wicked incantations, and
 With many a sinful spell,
 They clutch him with Extortion's hand,
 And strove to make him pay
 A sum of cash—more than he had—
 Or else to go to jail.
 Direful and fierce the students rage,
 And one went on his bail ;
 * * * * *
 If still you are not satisfied
 With this much of the tale,
 I can but say your appetite
 Is for dime novel style ;
 And that perhaps you'll find the rest
 In some newspaper file.

A LEGEND OF OLD.

Some years ago, when early Spring
 Half timidly began to smile,
 The time of year when mischief lurks
 In every Kansas zephyr, came
 A message of sad news for those
 Who loved the College here, and all
 Its friends and patrons. For one day
 Our President received a note—
 Its wrapper yellow, and the youth
 Who bore it seemed to be
 A guileless, simple boy, who had
 No thought save this : " My orders are,
 You sign this little book ; " and then
 On further errands sped. But, lo !
 The message he had brought was one
 Of mourning, far and wide ; for he
 Whom we had learned to hold so dear,
 Our favorite Regent, late had died.
 Ah, mournful were the students then ;
 And sad were the Professors, as
 They saw their President depart
 With other Regents two, who went
 To weep upon his confined bier.
 * * * * *
 With solemn steps and faces sad
 The students filed into the Hall,
 To show their loving memory.
 Before them sat the Faculty
 With visages of mournful length.
 One of them, holding in his hand
 A handkerchief with border black,

Began with trembling voice and slow:
 "When first I saw our Regent dear—"
 He stopped, and lo! a pearly tear
 Ran slowly down his smooth, plump cheek.
 Rat, tat! Whang, bang! Sure some one strives
 To force the fastened doors. He may
 Not enter till at length
 The last sad word is said, and then
 They find another telegram: "The
 Regent is not dead, but strong
 And well, and with no thought
 Of dying just at present." But
 This news gives little joy. In wrath
 The Faculty an oath have sworn
 To ferret out who did the deed.
 With martial pomp and mock array
 Some mourn for him who is not dead.
 This act is wrong; and on them falls
 The Faculty's stern hand. 'Tis wrong,
 You see, to beat the muffled drum,
 To carry arms reversed; you may
 Be asked to journey to your home.
 If for a moral you're inclined
 Just take these words to heart:
 "If aught for secrecy's designed,
 Don't let a boy take part."

THE UNFORTUNATE SENIOR.

It was a noble Senior, the proudest in the land,
 Who held his head as high as any of that band.

But now his pride has fallen low from its erst-high estate,
 And the reason of his downfall I hasten to relate.
 This noble Senior was a man of scientific mind;
 He sought for facts both far and near, wherever he could find
 Aught new or rare, or rich or fair. A bit of orange rind,
 Upon whose surface slipping a Prof. had once sat down,
 Became to him the dearest treasure of any in the town.
 One dewy eve he wandered slow beneath the moon's soft beams,
 Reflecting what sad fate befell his cherished boyhood's dreams,
 When lo! a form stands in his path, a horrid, bristling beast!

Most like those goblins dread that flee when rosy grows the East.
 But, brave as lion brought to bay, this Senior fiercely sprang
 And siezed the beast with whose wild cries full loud the welkin rang.
 But nothing frights the Senior now: he bears him far away,
 And ties him in the lone back yard to wait the dawning day.

Oh! mournful, mournful were the wails that floated on the air,
As round the checking post the fearful beast did tear.

But when the timid light of morn came trembling on the scene,
And o'er the fence, with glistening eye, the Senior bold doth lean,
He whispers softly: "With what joy will Medics welcome me
When, fastened to this mighty rope, this specimen they see!"
But, ah! his joy is but short-lived, for reckoning follows fast,
And o'er his brilliant dream of bliss a dark, dark cloud is cast,
For the owner of the animal appears upon the stage,

And shows in look and voice and word his all-consuming rage.
And now the Senior trembles, and now his face grows pale,
As this fiend incarnate threatens he will have him sent to jail.
And had he carried out his deed, as once he thought to do,
Full loud and long had been the wail of hapless '82.

USE
LEIS' DANDELION TONIC
—A—
BRAIN FOOD,
—AND—
Cures Nervousness,
—THE—
STUDENT NEEDS IT.

Here we give a few Testimonials of the Merits of

LEIS' DANDELION TONIC:

Col. G. W. Vesle, of the Union Pacific railroad, writes that he has used Leis' Dandelion Tonic for torpidity of the liver and that general sluggishness of the system common in this climate, with highly satisfactory results. He considers it a most excellent tonic and liver medicine.

Maj. H. J. Hopkins, and A. Campbell, the warden and chaplain of the Kansas State Prison, unite in a letter commending Leis' Dandelion Tonic as an excellent remedy for malarial troubles and the general unhealthy condition of the system brought on by dwelling in a malarial district.

S. Harvey Horner, druggist of Cassville, Kansas, says that Leis' Dandelion Tonic sells better than any proprietary medicine found on his shelves, and that all who use it speak of it in the highest terms. In the same letter he orders another gross, to be shipped at once, and adds, "I have sold seven bottles to-day."

Hon. Dudley C. Haskell, Member of Congress from Kansas, writes that he has used Leis' Dandelion Tonic with good results. He says further, "I can heartily recommend it as a safe and valuable remedy."
