HYMN ...

Softly now the light of day Fades upon my sight away; Free from care, from labor free.

Lord, I would commune with Thee. Thou, whose all-pervading eve Naught escapes, without, within, Pardon each infirmity. Open fault and secret sin.

Soon, for me, the light of day Shall forever pass away: Then, from sin and sorrow free, Take me, Lord, to dwell with Thee, Thou who, sinless, yet hast known All of man's infirmity: Then, from Thine eternal throne, Jesus, look with pitying eye.

Amen.

HYMN _____ Duke Street

O God, beneath Thy guiding hand Our exiled fathers cross'd the sea; And when they trod the wintry strands, With pray'r and psalm they worshipp'd Thee.

Thou heard'st, well pleased, the song, the prayer, Thy blessing came; and still its power Shall onward, through all ages, bear The memory of that holy hour.

Laws, freedom, truth, and faith in God Came with those exiles o'er the waves; And where their pilgrim feet have trod, The God they trusted guards their graves.

And here Thy name, O God of love, Their children's children shall adore, Till these eternal hills remove, And spring adorns the earth no more.

Amen.

Work at the University of Kansas is not confined to the campus. at the Bell Memorial Hospital, Kansas City, Kansas, but they also, through the University Extension Division, carry on classes and TEven in the fartherest parts of the state, young people who wish to carry on their studies are enrolled in the Correspondence Study Department, and are sending in their written work, and receiving it back with the comments and assistance of the instructors.

More than that, in six cities of Kansas last year, groups of students were organized, and to them faculty members came weekly to carry on classes in the same way as campus classes.

The University last year enrolled on the campus more than 5,000 students, and in its Extension service carried the benefits of University training to 1,801 more.

FIFTY YEARS BEFORE AND AFTER

HE only educational course I ever completed was that of the El Dorado High School where I was graduated in 1884, fifty years ago. Today fifty years after, we graduate from our Kansas colleges more students than were graduated from all the Kansas High Schools fifty years ago. And in that far day it was a rather more unique distinction to be a high school graduate than it is to be a college graduate today. So times have changed. Today we have about the same number of citizens in Kansas that were here fifty years ago. We have distributed our wealth so equitably that we stand in a class by ourselves in the number of college graduates we turn out. We have used taxation as an agency of distributive justice to provide not a mere common school education; indeed not only a high school education, but a college and professional education available to all the youth in the state. Fifty years ago to have envisioned what we are doing today in Kansas in the matter of education, public health, highways, social work, the regulation of various agencies of commerce for the public welfare, would have made our fathers in 1884, and your grandfathers, most uneasy. To have told them what Kansas is doing, what the various municipalities of Kansas are doing, what the nation is doing to help common men to enjoy the fruits of the civilization in the commonwealth which their common work has built, would have made the founding fathers of Kansas cry out with angry amazement at the paternalism of a socialistic order. For the founding fathers were trudging through hard ways to the stars. My generation, the high school class of 1884 in Kansas fifty years ago, the sons and daughters of the young men who crossed the prairie as of old their fathers crossed the seas, were told by implication as we walked out of the high school in that day, that the job of state building was done and well done; that our task was to preserve what we had. Edward Bellamy had written a book called "Looking Backward," filled with what his generation regarded as prophetic folderol. Yet out of his vision for the young men of yesterday we elders today dream our dreams. Fifty years from now, some of you, dearly beloved, may stand where I am standing here and you may tell the class of 1984 that at your Commencement an ancient of days from the Class of 1884 stood up and told you of the visions of the young men which were realized in his dreams. The span will be one hundred years. It is something to think about. But how far-how far will be your dreams as old men in 1984 from the visions we saw as young men in 1884!

Yet we come with no pride of achievement in what our generation has done. Looking over the work of our hands which we lay at your feet today, I should say, speaking broadly, that we have dumped at the portals of your life one of the most elaborate, metallic scrap heaps that the history of civilization has recorded. A gaudy bauble it is. It shimmers with the simulation of bright reality, this modern civilization that we leave on your doorstep. It roars, it clatters, it shrieks and hums like a going concern. It will do almost anything but work. It is jammed—may I say in these classic haunts, jimmed, gypped and some of it is ready to be junked.

Five years ago we thought it was hitting on all 12 cylinders, a gorgeous mechanism headed straight for the millennium. We hired a competent engineer to put a few gadgets on it! two chickens in every pot, two garages on every lot. He was a good engineer. He carried in his kit all the accouterment needed, and under his hat all the experience required to fill the order. But scarcely had he touched it before the machine blew up under his hands and here it is. No one knows why it was or what it is. But it's yours. And when you put it together again, maybe you will have a lot of pieces left over and perhaps you won't have enough to go around. It will be a sweet job for your generation. Take it from the Class of 1884 with our felicitous condolences. And may we cheer you on with the cynical hope that you will have the old bus going by 1984 so that you can brag to our great great grandchildren how you saved the world from chaos.

Let us for a moment consider the chaos that is facing you. You, of all the classes who have come out of our colleges with eager eyes and shining countenances, must face the fact that you are confronting a new thing in the world, the first definite challenge to democracy. Liberty, for a thousand years, has been assumed as the goal of humanity. Now men say—not merely by the millions, nor in limited hundreds of millions, not in minorities but in vast majorities, half a billion east of the Rhine—say democracy is dead, liberty is a mocker. Rub your eyes, Class of 1934, and face this challenge. What are you going to do about it? The western fringe of Europe, France, the Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries and the English speaking commonwealths still champion democracy, still hold that freedom is a worthy aim for humanity. But from the Rhine to the Pacific under the dictatorships of Italy, of Central Europe, of Russia, humanity is rallying around tyrants who deny the value of our ancient rights. Why bother with free speech, they cry, when the drums and guns brook no reply? Why fiddle around with the delays of parliamentary government when the ukase and the army can push the wisdom of the few to its quick achievement? Why waste time with a trial by jury, with a writ of habeas corpus, when the police and the private armies of the dictators can establish order with no nonsense about it? Why waste money on the ballot box, proclaim the tyrants, Mussolini, Stalin, Hitler and their kind, when authoritative government goes to its purpose as an arrow from the bow? So speak the new despots of the modern world at the bier of democracy. So do they brush aside a thousand years of human aspiration as though the noble vision of free men in a free government was a legend of some intrigue in Nineveh or Tyre. Is democracy dying? Don't think, young men and women of 1934 that you can evade the searching question that is shaking the world.

America is facing a crossroad crisis in which she may have to choose between two tyrannies or to fight again the old fight, the ancient battle of our race, the fight for freedom. Down one fork of the road we see looming before us a potential plutocracy embattled as an army with banners. Here stand those who control the machinery of the machine age. They are not necessarily owners. They represent on the whole merely a dominant minority, small groups of stockholders. But they are entrenched. They have possession of the machines, the super-looms, the giant forges, the rails, the pipes, the wires, the flickering airways through the night that span the continent. They control the mines and the production of all the basic commodities. They are amiable despots for the most part, benevolent in their mellower moments, greedy only by virtue of their appointed task, fiendishly acquisitive, without real need or wisdom, for their voracious appetites. They are merged where they are not actually physically amalgamated by a growing class consciousness and the arrogance that comes with power. They would rule us under the altruistic despotism of a financial fascism. To maintain its reign sooner or later that fascism will have to cramp our liberty, shut off free utterance in the forum, on the air, from the press. Morever in the guise of suppressing demagogues and agitators, this despotism of unchecked capital will have to curtail the rights of trial by jury, the writ of habeas corpus and naturally they will control the courts. If they are left to their own devices under their cherished doctrine of laissez faire in government, some time in the decade of the forties these amiable plutocrats will demand the attention of the Class of 1934. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to forget Runnymede, Cromwell, Bunker Hill, Jefferson, Lincoln and go to Mussolini, or Hitler, or just as bad, to Stalin? Do you propose to fight for the middle course or perhaps lie supine and let the Juggernaut roll over you?

And down the other fork of the road, what is the prospect? Behold the politician. So long as he is what he is and what he must be under the democracy as it is—an average man—keen to please an average electorate, government will be what it is. Let us consider for a moment this politician. Does he hold his place in representative government because he embodies the highest wisdom of his electorate? He does not. He is in power because his intelligence quotient is the greatest common divisor of a not too quickwitted constituency. These constituents demand a certain amount of back-slapping, hand-shaking, babykissing, time-serving, job-getting to deceive them into voting for him. So, because he is really of the people and rather dumbly for the people he gets by with the people. He is not a bad lot. He will go as far in his patriotism as the tether of politics will let him go. He is honest enough, money-honest. But remember this, when we award the highest prizes of our American civilization to the keenest, most acquisitive men, politics, whose rewards are comparatively slight, gets on the whole our second rate and third rate citizens. So we find too often after the ballots are counted we have picked a dub. Yet as an escape from the menacing plutocracy, down the righthand fork of the road, we Americans are seriously considering handing over either for drastic regulation, stringent control, or actual ownership the vast complicated, delicately intricate machinery of finance and commerce—to whom? Well, to our American politicians who in their better moments are statesmen but in times of crisis too often turn demagogues. The prospect is appalling. With all the power that must come to men in government when these place-hunting politicians assume the added function of industry and banking; what then will become of liberty? Nothing in these remarks should be construed directly or indirectly as a criticism of the New Deal. On the whole and by and large I am for the New Deal. It is neither Communist nor Fascist. Much of it is necessary. All of it is human. And most of it is long past due.

Will they not have the same arrogant sense of their importance that will inevitably make tyrants out of the plutocrats? Will not our politicians taking under the aegis of government, the business of production and distribution of basic commodities, either by too drastic regulation, by stringent control, or ownership, resent criticism, curb debate and degenerate this government into some sort of proletarian dictatorship or hierarchy of political power?

This is what I mean when I say to the Class of 1934 that sooner or later as you walk into the middle decades of this century you may meet the challenge to democracy. We have left you this amazing industrial, financial, political set up and you must fight for your liberties if you hold them. You must line up in the next decade for or against the forces of freedom. You must choose or abandon the ideals that have been motivating men in the Western world for a thousand years. It is a new challenge but an old struggle.

Let us restate the question: Can freedom live in the machine age? A machine age presumes the mass production of things, goods, material service, things which formerly were produced by individuals for other individuals, chiefly neighbors. Mass production requires mass distribution. The individual worker and the individual consumer are thousands of miles apart. To make ends meet between the consumer and the producer requires channelling, stern and inflexible. If those who control the machine make the channels, they are ruthless. If society under government attempts the channelling, the channelling becomes regimentation. Even now, even in America, over large areas where capital invested in coal, in textiles, in steel, in sugar, in citrous fruits dominates a region, the democratic liberties always are threatened. Free speech, a free press, the right of assemblage, the writ of habeas corpus, these liberties wilt and wither as the owners of machinery control the courts and the police. Democracy languishes. Freedom disappears before the machines. Would freedom thrive more sturdily when politicians control the machine than it thrives now in those regions where the machine controls the politicians? I don't know. I check the question up to you, this challenge of the age: Can liberty survive in the machine age? Today it is true we still have liberty. But the machine is not functioning. The machinery of production and distribution of which we were so vain ten years ago is having trouble with its transmission.

So therefore, young ladies and gentlemen, as you walk around this tinselled, splendid omnibus of stalled vanity which we are leaving to you, while you are making it refunction as your civilization, let me ask you what you propose to do about it? What cams, cogs, levers, wheels, pulleys and contraptions of rennovation, invention or repair do you propose to use in putting the old bus on the road? I can imagine your saying to us who wrecked it: "Where is your tool chest? What real heritage have you left us?" A fair question that; one that deserves a frank answer. In spite of all the progress we have made in five decades, since 1884, in spite of the surface sheen that we have given to our external civilization, it seems to me the heritage which my generation brings to you is precious little, in the net of it.

Is it a rich and prosperous nation?

No, our riches and prosperity will confuse you more than if we had brought you a leaner land.

Is it this interminable labyrinth of machines stretched on wires and through pipes and over rails and around lighted airways across the rich green earth of spring?

No, it is not industry. That powerful engine is a Trojan horse out of which will stalk troubles to threaten your progress in the next decade.

Is it all these schools and colleges? No.

Is your heritage in the long hours of leisure which your fathers never knew?

I think it is none of these. All of them must be socialized. All of them must be made over into something real and true. It seems to me that we have brought you only the pure gold of our ancient liberties.

"All we have of freedom, all we use or know,
This our fathers bought for us, long, and long ago.
Ancient right unnoted, as the breath we draw,
Leave to live by no man's leave, underneath the law."

Now—let me list those simple golden nuggets which are your heritage, they are the democratic liberties that have been established on this continent after three hundred years of struggle. Here they are: The ballot box, the right of free utterance in every form, through the press, through free speech, through the right of assemblage and petition, the right of trial by jury, and of the writ of habeas corpus. That is the galaxy of liberties which insure to a definite legally ascertained majority of the American people "the consent of the governed"—simple, primitive things. Yet as you keep them or lose them will you win or fail in the battle of your generation for American freedom.

You may ask how shall we use this democratic process, these rights and liberties which are our heritage out of the America of yesterday. I don't know. I distrust anyone who claims that he does know. The most dangerous enemy of democracy today is a man with a rigid plan either for recovery or for reconstruction. For a man with a rigid plan is liable to feel that the adoption of his plan is more important than the retention of liberties which may endanger it. Therefore give honest consideration to any plan that in its adoption does not require the suspension of American liberties. Do not be too sure what plan will work and what will not. Try it. America has established herself by keeping an open mind and never fearing failure. Indeed, we have mapped our course in the long plebiscite of many failures. We groped our way, almost leaderless after Yorktown, then wrote our Constitution. After Appomattox, we were two, possibly three decades stumbling in a morass of calamity and misrule but we did not turn to a dictator. Democracy saved us whole, the slow sure wisdom of the people, the American spirit whatever it is, rising triumphant out of disaster. Let that be your guiding star.

In the struggle of the next decade they may tell you force is more potent than reason to establish the new order which they propose and if therefore they insist upon suspending, or for the moment modifying any liberty required for the full, free function of orderly parliamentary government under democracy, there, with all my heart I beg of you to say no. To compromise there, is treason. For however fair and fine a compromise the passing tyrant may hold out, when he would abrogate the reasonable process of democracy, still he is establishing tyranny. No man has a right to play Providence with his neighbor's liberty, no matter how noble and apparent the benevolence may seem under which the amiable tyrant would establish his despotism. No tyranny can be erected for the common good. The power that comes with tyranny breeds the arrogance of tyranny. And tyrants are always tyrants. Also remember this, in taking the meager heritage that we bring you, don't be fooled by the tyrant when he prates too glibly about this common good which he would establish by a rule of force. The common good is not entirely a thing of bread and butter, of warmth and shelter. It is something more. Our Republic was not erected to give men a full stomach and a warm back. Our Nation was set up here in the wilderness for no mere material end or aim. Whatever material gain we have made is an incident of the quest for justice, an incident of the self-respect that comes with freedom. Material welfare is an inevitable incident of the triumph of justice, but still an incident. Let me read the Preamble to our Constitution, which, more than any other document sets forth the American aspiration; listen:

"We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and . . .

—here is the climax—

"secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this the Constitution of the United States."

A Kingdom not made with hands. No material end and aim inspired our fathers when "They brought us freedom at no little cost.

Wherefore we must watch the gain, lest our gain be lost."

Tyrant Kings will come disguised as prosperity, as economic security, as regimented super-nationalism. But beware this: The King is he, whoever he may be, Fascist or Communist, who tries to tear down our liberties and offers us material security in their place. If you heed him, this tyrant King, sooner or later shall you awaken to stark reality—to despotism and its inevitable injustice and misrule.

So, tonight, we bring you out of our generation, fifty years ago, our inheritance. In America it is still undefiled, the inheritance of liberty under a democratic republic. No man will minimize the gross injustices of our modern world. They cry to Heaven for redress. And you must redress those gross economic maladjustments. Don't be fooled by smoke screens behind which men, clamoring for the Bill of Rights are digging entrenchments for wicked economic wrongs. Be sure that under the democratic process you can and will make the drastic social, economic and industrial adjustments needed.

Force will only bring new evils in its train. Even now the doctrinaires of a strong, stern government are beginning to tempt you as you step forth from the serenity of this sheltered life. Sirens will lure you to take their panaceas, the soft, soothing syrup of economic security. The Fascists will hail you, the Communists will beguile you—both tyrants! But hold fast to this your heritage, the self-respect of an American citizen free born, unshackled by the old oppressors in their new name.

"How so great their clamor, what so e'er they claim Suffer not the old King under any name. Here is naught unproven—here is naught to learn, It is written what shall fall, if the King return."

Abideth these three—Faith, Hope, Democracy. And because Democracy is Christianity in process of being institutionalized, and as love is the foundation of the philosophy of Jesus, we may well say, And the greatest of these is—Democracy.

Adapted from verses by R. W. NEAL, '98 Music, "Fair Harvard"

Gray halls! In our morning, ere springtime was fled, Bright haunts where our fancy was led, The home of our Muses, the hills of our Gods, Where spirit breathed life into clods— : Gray piles, and deserted though thronged round with feet.

In exile, in absence, we greet. |:

On pedestaled hillside faith-reared and high set, O Symbol, our hearts hail thee yet: The voices about thee, alsal are too new, Their farewells too young to be true. !) O mistress of longing, young thoughts gladly stray, Exiled hearts turn back on their way, !:

Glad birth-place of love-dreams, fair nourice of truth, Clings sweetly about thee thy youth; Green ivy enwraps thee, deep valleys embrace In riches thy rock-founded base.

: Yet thy beauties are fairer as seen through the years, Since exile has taught our hearts tears. :

High city of learning, dear past of our hopes,
Tho' children be climbing thy slopes,
Tho' they hail thee with clamor and laud thee aloud,
Tho' they leave thee, with sadness o'erbowed,—
i! Yet changeful such clamor, such sorrow too brief,
Our exile has taught our hearts orief. !:

SIXTY-SECOND ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS

JUNE THE ELEVENTH
NINETEEN HUNDRED THIRTY-FOUR
AT 7:00 P.M.

• For the first time in its history, the University of Kansas welcomes, at this Commencement, graduates of sixty years ago:

Mrs. Ida Blood Hasselman, of Indianapolis, and Miss Hannah Oliver, associate professor emerita of Latin, as guests of honor at this Commencement. • When they received their degrees, June 10, 1874, the University of Kansas had but two buildings, of which Fraser Hall was the newer and the chief. Today, an impressive panorama of buildings crowns the hilltop before you, with still others forming the University's medical center at Kansas City. When Miss Blood and Miss Oliver received their diplomas there were enrolled 173 students, including the preparatory department; today, the University has as many as 3,700 students in residence in its fall term, with added thousands in the summer session and extension classes. The graduates of 1874 received instruction from a faculty of 11 members; now there are 215 members of the full-time faculty, and as many more special lecturers and part-time assistants. • In its sixty-two Commencements, the University has awarded 19,550 degrees and certificates to 16,330 different persons.
