PATRICK AKARD is completing his Ph.D. in Sociology at the University of Kansas. His research interests include political economy, the sociology of work, and social theory. He is currently studying the transformation of economic policy in the U.S. from 1973 to the present.

SCOTT HUNT received his M.A. from the University of Nebraska-Omaha in 1987. He is currently in the Ph.D. program at U.C.L.A. His recent interests are in Marxist sociology and theory.

PETER KIVISTO is an Associate Professor of Sociology at Augustana College. He received his Ph.D. from the New School for Social Research. His prior publications include the 1984 book Immigrant Socialists in the U.S., and he is currently editing 2 books on ethnicity. Dr. Kivisto's current interests are in theory, ethnicity, and social movements.

SCOTT McNALL received his Ph.D. from the University of Oregon in 1965, and is presently Professor of Sociology at the University of Kansas. His most recent work is The Road to Rebellion: Class Formation and Kansas Populism, 1865-1900, forthcoming from the University of Chicago Press in 1988. He is interested in the factors that contribute to the success or failure of mass democratic movements.

MARK O. ROUSSEAU is an Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Nebraska-Omaha. He received his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina. His current research interests are in political sociology, social stratification and inequality, and French politics and the state. He is co-author with Raphael Zariski of Regionalism and Regional Devolution in Comparative Perspective (forthcoming, from Praeger).
