Cover Art:

Julieta Cervantes Andrés was born in Mexico City in 1957. She studied journalism and communication at the University of Acatlán. Her taste for literature led her to collaborate in radio programs, as well as in the realization of various advertisement campaigns. Her involvement in painting was discovered through the guidance of Raúl Guerra, a Mexican artist whose work can be found in the Museum of Anthropology of Mexico City.

In this painting, entitled Eclipse, the artist demonstrates the contrasts that for her symbolize life, showing the both darkness and light in one instance.

Acknowledgements

The editors of Social Thought and Research would like to thank all of the individuals involved in the production of Volume 32: Elizabeth Kanost (copyediting), Melissa Meyer (digital art), and Shane Willson (typesetting) for their help in formatting this volume for publication, as well as Julieta Cervantes Andrés for the cover artwork. We also want to thank graduate students, faculty, and staff in the Department of Sociology at The University of Kansas for their continued support of STAR, including technical and editorial expertise and advice. We especially want to thank all of our anonymous reviewers for their time spent reviewing the submissions to this volume. And finally, we thank all the authors who submitted their work for Volume 32 for their patience, diligence, and effort put into drafting and finishing their work for publication.
