Home: General Information of the Contents

The Mid-America Chinese Resource Guide is an Internet project of the Midwest Chapter Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA) which began in October 1997.

The goal of this project is to create an online reference resource to include all China related information from the Midwest area including states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin. The online project continues CALA Midwest Chapter 1995 publication Midwest Area Chinese American Resources Guide.

The purpose of the Mid-America Chinese Resource Guide is twofold: to provide complete coverage of information related to China originating from the Midwest area; to provide China related resources to the Midwest for learning about China. It includes coverage of each state's information on business, culture, education, medicine, religion, private societies, and government organizations that have a significant focus on China. It promotes understanding and usage of Midwest area museums, libraries, cultural centers, conferences and events with a Chinese focus. Each entry is annotated with a brief description, contact information, address, email and WWW URL.

The Guide is intended for people who desire China related information in Mid-America region. The Guide is a collaborate project of the CALA Midwest Chapter. Each State Contact is responsible for information accuracy and update of his/her own state. The text is in English and may be accompanied by Chinese characters for names and titles of organizations or individuals if sources choose to supply Chinese characters for entries. The Midwest Chinese American Librarians Association has a great desire to provide the public with easy access to China related information and to promote an understanding of Chinese culture.

It is funded by the Freeman Foundation of New York and Stowe, Vermont. NCTA maintains five regional oversight centers in the United States that work with more than forty educational institutions. KCTA is part of the Columbia University group. KCTA works with school districts in Kansas and western Missouri to prepare their students to be successful by enhancing instruction about East Asia throughout the curriculum, especially in world history, social studies, and geography classes. KCTA endeavors to help teachers and school librarians develop an understanding and appreciation of China, Korea and Japan, to provide knowledge about this vital part of the world and to promote informed analyses of its interdependence with our area. This is especially important in the twenty-first century when natural resources, business policies, political affairs, and cultural events around the world affect Americans in many ways. KCTA offers "Teaching East Asia," a thirty-contact hour seminar for in-service teachers and school librarians twice a year, as well as follow-up activities for seminar alumni including workshops, lectures, trips to national sites and opportunity for international travel. The goal of the seminar is to help create a permanent place for East Asia in the K-12 curriculum. Phone #: (785)-864-3918

Kansas City Asian Culture Exchange

Kansas City, Kansas

Contact Person: Pat Thompson

Founded Date: 2003

Description:
Asia-kc.org was first conceived in the spring of 2000 during a retreat in the everglades of Florida. I had a vision of a central place to find information about Asian-related events, businesses, and people in the Kansas City area. This was something that I wanted, and knew others would be interested as well. After I spent some time learning how to create a website, and some trial and error experimenting with content that I wanted to provide, asia-kc.org was quietly launched in January of 2003. In May of 2003, the first Asia-KC Newsletter went out as an ezine. I am grateful to many people who have contributed to the success of this endeavor, donating time, money, information and talent. I welcome your comments and ideas, or perhaps you would like to volunteer to help out. If you enjoy this site and find it useful, subscribe to the newsletter. I promise not to spam you. Description: As co-chairs of our department, we are very pleased to welcome you to our department. The study of a foreign language has long been considered a core component of a liberal arts program. Tradition aside, and from a very practical point of view, the demand if not requirement of internationally competent employees is no longer a rumor; it is HERE. Corporate administrators consider foreign language one of the most important skills for the global market place. The study of a foreign language lays the principal groundwork for becoming competent in an international context; that is, it develops the notions that foreign cultures look at the world differently from Americans, do some things differently and expect us to respect these differences. Language reflects these differences. Our department offers a major and a minor in French, German, and Spanish and occasionally courses in Arabic, Chinese, and Japanese. Description: The Kansas Consortium for Teaching about Asia (KCTA) is headquartered at the Center for East Asian Studies, University of Kansas, and is associated with the National Consortium for Teaching about Asia (NCTA). It is funded by the Freeman Foundation of New York and Stowe, Vermont. NCTA maintains five regional oversight centers in the United States that work with more than forty educational institutions. KCTA is part of the Columbia University group. KCTA works with school districts in Kansas and western Missouri to prepare their students to be successful by enhancing instruction about East Asia throughout the curriculum, especially in world history, social studies, and geography classes. KCTA endeavors to help teachers and school librarians develop an understanding and appreciation of China, Korea and Japan, to provide knowledge about this vital part of the world and to promote informed analyses of its interdependence with our area. This is especially important in the twenty-first century when natural resources, business policies, political affairs, and cultural events around the world affect Americans in many ways. KCTA offers "Teaching East Asia," a thirty-contact hour seminar for in-service teachers and school librarians twice a year, as well as follow-up activities for seminar alumni including workshops, lectures, trips to national sites and opportunity for international travel. The goal of the seminar is to help create a permanent place for East Asia in the K-12 curriculum. Phone #: (785)-864-3918

However, the oldest copy of the minutes of the annual meeting is dated November 6, 1931. At that time, we were known as the Kansas Modern Language Association (KMLA). In 1968, our name officially became Kansas Foreign Language Association (KFLA), in order to include teachers of Greek and Latin and to affiliate with the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL). Most recently, October 2004, we voted to change the organization's name to Kansas World Language Association (KSWLA). This is intended to diminish the 'foreignness' of language learning, to extend membership to teachers of North American native languages, and to encourage teachers of English to speakers of other languages in becoming members.

<td>Asia-ks.org was first conceived in the spring of 2000 during a retreat in the everglades of Florida. I had a vision of a central place to find information about Asian-related events, businesses and people in the Kansas City area. This was something that I wanted, and knew others would be interested as well. After I spent some time learning how to create a website, and some trial and error experimenting with content that I wanted to provide, asia-ks.org was quietly launched in January of 2003. In May of 2003, the first Asia-KC Newsletter went out as an ezine. I am grateful to many people who have contributed to the success of this endeavor, donating time, money, information and talent. I welcome your comments and ideas, or perhaps you would like to volunteer to help out. If you enjoy this site and find it useful, subscribe to the newsletter. I promise not to spam you. However, the oldest copy of the minutes of the annual meeting is dated November 6, 1931. At that time, we were known as the Kansas Modern Language Association (KMLA). In 1968, our name officially became Kansas Foreign Language Association (KFLA), in order to include teachers of Greek and Latin and to affiliate with the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL). Most recently, October 2004, we voted to change the organization's name to Kansas World Language Association (KSWLA). This is intended to diminish the 'foreignness' of language learning, to extend membership to teachers of North American native languages, and to encourage teachers of English to speakers of other languages in becoming members.

USCPFA was founded as a national organization in 1974, working on people-to-people diplomacy between Americans and Chinese. Over 50 chapters in four regions spanning the United States comprise the organization. National policies are established by the membership, which meets biennially at a national convention. A national board of directors implements national policy and meets twice each year. USCPFA is financed by membership dues, individual donations, local fundraising activities and tours to China. Description
The Kansas Consortium for Teaching about Asia (KCTA) is headquartered at the Center for East Asian Studies, University of Kansas, and is associated with the National Consortium for Teaching about Asia (NCTA). It is funded by the Freeman Foundation of New York and Stowe, Vermont. NCTA maintains five regional oversight centers in the United States that work with more than forty educational institutions. KCTA is part of the Columbia University group. KCTA works with school districts in Kansas and western Missouri to prepare their students to be successful by enhancing instruction about East Asia throughout the curriculum, especially in world history, social studies, and geography classes. KCTA endeavors to help teachers and school librarians develop an understanding and appreciation of China, Korea and Japan, to provide knowledge about this vital part of the world and to promote informed analyses of its interdependence with our area. This is especially important in the twenty-first century when natural resources, business policies, political affairs, and cultural events around the world affect Americans in many ways. KCTA offers "Teaching East Asia," a thirty-contact hour seminar for in-service teachers and school librarians twice a year, as well as follow-up activities for seminar alumni including workshops, lectures, trips to national sites and opportunity for international travel. The goal of the seminar is to help create a permanent place for East Asia in the K-12 curriculum. Phone #: (785)-864-3918

Description  As co-chairs of our department, we are very pleased to welcome you to our department. The study of a foreign language has long been considered a core component of a liberal arts program. Tradition aside, and from a very practical point of view, the demand if not requirement of internationally competent employees is no longer a rumor; it is HERE. Corporate administrators consider foreign language one of the most important skills for the global market place. The study of a foreign language lays the principal groundwork for becoming competent in an international context; that is, it develops the notions that foreign cultures look at the world differently from Americans, do some things differently and expect us to respect these differences.
Language reflects these differences. Our department offers a major and a minor in French, German, and Spanish and occasionally courses in Arabic, Chinese, and Japanese. General Office Hours: Mon to Fri 8:00-4:00pm Phone #: (785)-670-1714

Contact Person: Phyllis Farrar
E-mail Address: pfarrar@sunflower.com

Founded Date: 1931

Description:
Location of state conferences: Witchita, Kansas at the Wichita Marriott, 9100 Corporate Hills Drive. The oldest Bulletin in our archives is for October, 1956. However, the oldest copy of the minutes of the annual meeting is dated November 6, 1931. At that time, we were known as the Kansas Modern Language Association (KMLA). In 1968, our name officially became Kansas Foreign Language Association (KFLA), in order to include teachers of Greek and Latin and to affiliate with the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL). Most recently, October 2004, we voted to change the organization's name to Kansas World Language Association (KSWLA). This is intended to diminish the 'foreignness' of language learning, to extend membership to teachers of North American native languages, and to encourage teachers of English to speakers of other languages in becoming members.

The Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA) started in 1973 as Mid-West Chinese American Librarians Association, a regional organization in Illinois. A year later, 1974, Chinese Librarians Association was formed in California. In 1976, Mid-West Chinese American Librarians Association was expanded to a national organization as Chinese American Librarians Association. In 1983, Chinese American Librarians Association and Chinese Librarians Association were merged and retained the name of Chinese Librarians Association.

The CALA Midwest Chapter (CALAMW) is the oldest Chapter in CALA and organized to best serve the interests of its members in 13 states of Midwest. Currently the MW Chapter has near a hundred members. The regular officers, elected by the chapter members are president, vice president/president elect, and treasurer. The secretary and the special committees, appointed by the incumbent president to serve the same length as the president, include those for program planning, membership, electronic publishing, nomination, public relations, special task forces and state contacts. The election usually takes place in spring of each year.
