Research touts family role to reduce obesity

Despite recent data showing that childhood obesity in the U.S. has begun to drop, overweight and obese kids and teens remain a personal and public health hazard. A KU researcher's findings show that engaging the family is critical for developing healthier eating and lifestyle habits that lead to a reduction in weight in children and teens.

Audio-Reader receives $10K grant

KU's Audio-Reader Network, a reading and information service for the blind and print-disabled, has received a $10,000 grant from the Ethel and Raymond F. Rice Foundation.

The Commons announces artist visit

Emilio Chapela Pérez will visit campus from Jan. 22 to Jan. 25 as the artist in residence at The Commons in conjunction with programming for the academic year, based on the theme Data & Democracy.

Leadership Lunch

Tuesday, Jan. 15, 2013

Noon-1 p.m.

Kansas Union

Alderson Auditorium

KPR Twitter

@kprinfo Join KPR tonight for coverage of Gov. Brownback's State of the State address at 6:30. Democratic response and analysis to follow.

Benefit for the JayDoc Free Clinic

More: photos | videos