Guidelines combine spirituality, recovery

KU researchers have developed a set of guidelines for making spirituality part of recovery based on research they performed both with providers and consumers of mental health services.

Full Story

TODAY’S HEADLINES

Chancellor testifies on budget

Chancellor Bernadette Gray-Little testified to the Kansas House Education Budget Committee Feb. 18 about Gov. Sam Brownback’s budget recommendation for KU and the Kansas Board of Regents system.

Full Story

Facility boosts computing power

KU researchers now have access to a new facility capable of supporting 24 times more high-performance computing power, thanks to completion of a two-year renovation and improvement project funded by a $4.7 million grant from the National Institutes of Health.

Full Story

CAMPUS NEWS

KU to screen 'Codebreaker'

The University of Kansas will stage a screening of Patrick Sammon’s docudrama “Codebreaker” at 6 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 21, in the Spencer Museum of Art Auditorium. It will follow with a question-and-answer period with the producer.

Full Story