

Full week of fun set for homecoming

The University of Kansas Alumni Association and the student-led Homecoming Steering Committee, along with campus and community partners, have organized seven days of events Oct. 21-27 to celebrate KU's 100th Homecoming. The parade grand marshal is Olympic gold medalist Diamond Dixon; the honorary grand marshal is former U.S. Sen. Bob Dole.

Helping improve pronunciation

Research by Manuela Gonzalez-Bueno, associate professor of curriculum and teaching, shows that even small differences in pronunciation can be perceptible, and with training, speakers can improve their pronunciation, leading to a less noticeable accent and improved understanding.

School of Music presents 'A Bernstein Triptych'

The University of Kansas School of Music will present "A Bernstein Triptych" this fall, featuring the works of famed composer Leonard Bernstein. "Leonard Bernstein is one of the iconic musical personalities of the 20th Century," said Robert Walzel, Dean of the KU School of Music. "Continuing his legacy of diverse musical creations is important for our students and our musical community."
