KU announces new Self Graduate Fellows

Nine doctoral students have been selected to receive KU's prestigious Madison and Lila Self Graduate Fellowship. These four-year awards go to new or first-year doctoral students who demonstrate leadership, initiative and a passion for achievement. Areas of study include geology, chemical and petroleum engineering, pathology and laboratory medicine, among others.

Full Story

Princeton religious scholar to lecture

Eddie Glaude Jr., the William S. Tod Professor of Religion and African American Studies at Princeton University, will deliver two public lectures this week at KU that address topics at the intersection of his research in religion and African-American studies.

Full Story

Spooner CD release, concert

KU Associate Professor of Music Steven Spooner has released his groundbreaking five-CD set, “The Historical Piano Recital Series,” and the live concert film, “Aspects of Liszt.” A release party is planned at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Spencer Museum of Art.

Full Story
The 2012-13 KU wall calendars have been delivered to Lawrence campus staff via campus mail. Additional copies are available for free from either Marketing Communications, in the Wesley Building, or at the Kansas Union, level 4.