$4 million secured for scholar programs

KU’s Educational Opportunity Programs have secured more than $4 million in funding to ensure they can continue to help first-generation and low-income students attend and graduate from college. The programs, which include the TRIO and McNair Scholars programs, have been funded for five years. Tight federal funding made it unclear whether the full amount would be available.

Full Story

TODAY’S HEADLINES

Analyzing filibuster reform

With the U.S. Senate still poised to take action on filibuster reform this week, some political researchers, such as Michael Lynch, assistant professor of political science, remain skeptical on whether politicians will strike a deal that includes significant changes.

Full Story

CETE co-director named

A nationally recognized expert in K-12 assessment, accountability systems and performance standards joins the Center for Educational Testing and Evaluation as its co-director.

Full Story

CAMPUS NEWS

Honor a student employee

KU is still accepting nominations for the Student Employee of the Year Award for the 2012-13 academic year. The deadline for nominations is 5 p.m. Jan. 31.

Full Story  Submit nomination

FEATURED MULTIMEDIA