Art works: Exploring women's health

The national Waiting Room Project began as a way to explore women's health issues through art. KU's Department of Family Medicine's Natabhona Mabachi and Crystal Lumpkins are two of the authors who contributed articles for the exhibition's companion book, "A Waiting Room of One's Own."

Full Story