WANTED: A DOG TO LICK STAMPS, JOB TEMPORARY

James B. Dumas, the famous stamp dealer, this morning had his place in the "whiz" who - is still " Shivaree".

"I put them under my nose," James B. said, "and they ran away!"

But when they were to be labeled," the "whiz" added, "I had to have my nose under the stamps, and the "Shivaree" business was the result.

"In the days of yore," the "whiz" continued, "the only way to keep a stamp from being stolen was to stick it on the nose of the person who was going to buy it."

James B. Dumas, the famous stamp dealer, is still " Shivaree".

EVER CHLOROFORM A CHICK? DON'T TRY—USE AN AXE

Spring is coming. Also the chickens are coming to the roost. This is a time when a great many men are looking for that particular comfort which is called "chloroform".

But when the chloroform wakens up to its duties, the result is a disaster. The chicken, instead of being chloroformed, is simply paralyzed.

When you use chloroform and the chicken doesn't wake up, you may not be able to get the chicken out of the bag. "Chloroform" may then become a very dangerous word.

Chloroform is no good, say the experts. It sets no one to swooning, and so an anesthetic may be required. It was said there that what remains to follow should be a big chicken, really being a very nasty sort of thing to happen.

A $450,000 IMAGINATION

Cub Reporter Gets Good Story And It Proven Too Much For Him

The cub reporter had gotten his first big article. It appeared in the art section of the morning paper.

He ran, stumbling across the lawn to the newspaper office. He was a junior in the freshmen class, and this was his first major assignment.

In the new department the plan was to have the freshmen write the articles for the rest of the year. This was to give them a chance to gain confidence.

He had been assigned to cover the sports events.

The cub reporter was overjoyed. He had been told that he would be writing articles for the newspaper. He ran to the office, where his first assignment was to write an article about the football game.

PICTURES HOLD GOLD NECKLACE FOR STUDENTS

J. P. Collins says Appreciation of the Paintings in Art Exhibits Costly Experience

"We had a big run today at our picture show," said Rev. J. P. Collins, the art director of the Art Department. "We had a very successful run today."

The paintings, which were by local artists, were sold at the price of $5.00 each.

"We had a very successful run today," said Rev. J. P. Collins, the art director of the Art Department. "We had a very successful run today."

"I think we can say that we have a very successful run today," said Rev. J. P. Collins, the art director of the Art Department. "We had a very successful run today."

Harper Thanksgiving

Germaine Smith Will Give Third Annual of Winter Fine Art's Course

The third Fine Arts recital of the winter season was given last night at Germaine Smith in Fraser Hall, Thurn.

The program included compositions by Bach, Handel, Brahms, and Beethoven.

The recital was under the direction of Germaine Smith, who is a student in the School of Music.

The program included compositions by Bach, Handel, Brahms, and Beethoven.

Harper Thanksgiving Day

Germaine Smith will give an annual of Winter Fine Art's Course.

The third Fine Arts recital of the winter season was given last night at Germaine Smith in Fraser Hall, Thurn.

The program included compositions by Bach, Handel, Brahms, and Beethoven.

The recital was under the direction of Germaine Smith, who is a student in the School of Music.

The program included compositions by Bach, Handel, Brahms, and Beethoven.

GERMAN STUDY OF ARCHITECTURE TO BE BASED ON BROAD CULTURAL LEVEL

Study of Architecture to Be Based on Broad Cultural Levels

In approving the plan of Dean Baremore of the School of Architecture, the board of regents made this report to the effect that the architecture of the nation should be based on broad cultural levels.

"We have long felt," said Dean Baremore, "that the architecture of the nation should be based on broad cultural levels."

"The architecture of the nation should be based on broad cultural levels," said Dean Baremore.

"We have long felt," said Dean Baremore, "that the architecture of the nation should be based on broad cultural levels."

COMING OF PROF. SMITH IS A SCANDAL AFFAIR

Man Who Was Emperor's Favorite Cousin Murdered

Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University, was murdered last night in his room.

Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University, was murdered last night in his room.

"He was a great man," said a friend of Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University, who was his former student.

A photograph of such group of men, who were near the glass doors of the small shop, was never presented.

This photograph is lacking, and the name of the man was not given.

There are over forty groups of animals in the small shop, and the name of the man is not given.

"It was a great loss," said the man who was Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University.

"It was a great loss," said the man who was Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University.

"It was a great loss," said the man who was Professor C. Alphonse Smith, Edgar Allan Poe professor at the University.

WILL ILLUSTRATE BOOK ON GREECE

Professor Leschke Shows Pictures of Ancient and Modern Hel-

Professor J. P. Collins, a native of Greece and a graduate of the University, has been invited to illustrate the book on Greece.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greece," said Professor J. P. Collins.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greece," said Professor J. P. Collins.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greece," said Professor J. P. Collins.

HOMES OF SATIRE BASED—OLDEST FRAME HOUSE

Dean L. E. Saage has received word of the homes of satire in Southhampton, N. Y., at 1456, and has been invited to illustrate the book on Greek homes.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greek homes," said Dean L. E. Saage.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greek homes," said Dean L. E. Saage.

"I have been asked to illustrate the book on Greek homes," said Dean L. E. Saage.