SCENES "ON THE HILL" AT K. U., WHERE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS HAVE STARTED WORK ON THE 1923-1924 SCHOOL YEAR.
Last week was the week of weeks at K. U.

The students were enrolling and readying themselves for the school year.

The placid, pretty town of Lawrence was a haze of activity and excitement. People were out and about, bustling about their business. The streets were crowded with students, many of them new to the university, and others returning after a summer break. The town was buzzing with the energy and enthusiasm of the new academic year.

The students were excited and eager to begin their studies. The campus was alive with the sound of footsteps and the hum of conversations. The air was thick with the scent of fresh ink and paper, as students prepared for the challenges that lay ahead.

The atmosphere was electric, and the students were ready to take on the tasks that lay ahead. They were excited to see what the new year would bring and were determined to make the most of their time at the university.

The week was filled with activities and events, and the students were busy making the most of their time. They were looking forward to the new opportunities that lay ahead and were eager to see what the future would bring.

The week was a success, and the students were ready to begin their studies. The campus was filled with the sound of learning and excitement, and the students were ready to take on the challenges that lay ahead.
