The first godgirl was born in Miami in 1951. In subsequent years the number has risen to 12. They are typically born in the seventh or eighth month of normal fetal growth and develop atypically from there on. By the third year the bones of the forehead and jaw enlarge grotesquely and a fuzz of fine reddish soft hairs appears on the throats and cheeks of these exciting new girls. Shown in photo below are the Lemo’s, the first godgirl’s family, the father, Plumber Lerno, the son Monty, the sisters Jellybell & Sandra. The godgirl herself is not shown. She is kept in special basement room rigged with an air conditioning and dehumidifying units at the advice of the girl’s physicians. She is kept here in the room so that the outer epidermal layers of the skin is oddly subject to extraordinary fungal ravages, to which she seems so prone.
